United States Senate

WASHINGTON, D.C.

August 7, 1964

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Goodman:

Please accept my most sincere condolences on the death of your son Andrew.

He was a martyr in the cause of justice and brotherhood, a courageous worker for the ideals Americans cherish. It is difficult at this time to find consolation but I know you share my firm belief that Andrew did not live or die in vain. The example of his devotion to equality and human rights will inspire all Americans to re-dedicate themselves to achieving the better society for which he worked and died. The achievement of that society, to which I pledge my personal effort, will be Andrew's memorial and your solace.

Your loss is great but so must be your pride in him.

Very sincerely yours,

KB Keating
